“Swafoto” (Selfie)

Acrylic and Chinese ink on burlap, 90 x 110 cm.

Here’s another “clin d’œil”, an ironical wink, at today’s addiction to social media. A bright red sky sets the scene for a mighty eruption. The smoke is already billowing thick across the image. In front, standing at the edge of a picturesque paddy field scene, we see a local girl, dressed fashionably in batik clothes, taking a selfie of the event, almost unmoved, thinking “The world can collapse, I don’t care, provided that I am on this cool picture that my followers and the whole world can see...”
